Condition and Health of the Cannabis Industry in California

Supplemental Report

Gavin Newsom, Governor
State of California

Tomiquia Moss, Secretary
Business, Consumer Services and Housing Agency

Nicole Elliott, Director
Department of Cannabis Control

Published March 3, 2025

Executive Summary

The State of California began regulating commercial cannabis activity on January 1, 2018, in parallel with the start of adult use (non-medical) cannabis sales. The last seven years have been marked by economic adjustments, including as pre-existing cannabis businesses transitioned into the regulatory and licensing framework.

Licensed cannabis market

During this transitional period, the licensed cannabis market has seen both positive momentum as well as challenges.

The challenges include:

- Taxes, fees and other compliance costs can make it expensive to produce licensed cannabis.
- Wholesale prices for harvested cannabis have been declining since the fourth quarter of 2020, and retail sales revenues have been decreasing since 2021.
- Some businesses are consolidating or exiting the market, consistent with other emerging markets.

Externalities exacerbate these conditions. Licensed businesses compete with illegal cannabinoid products, including those chemically altered to mimic the intoxicating effects of cannabis products. Federal prohibition of cannabis and treatment under the Internal Revenue Code continue to restrict cannabis businesses and limit opportunities for financing and investment utilized routinely and by other markets during periods of economic change.

Despite these challenges, the California licensed market continues to grow:

- Licensed production of cannabis plants is increasing, and wholesale prices are stabilizing.
- Retail sales volume (units sold) in licensed stores is increasing.
- Licensed retail is expanding in some local jurisdictions which, as of two years ago, offered no local consumer access to the regulated market.

Cannabis consumption in California

Cannabis use rates in California are consistent with other states that have legalized. The share of Californians that use cannabis has been increasing for more than a decade, beginning in 2011 and continuing through adult-use legalization, consistent with national trends.

Approximately 40% of the cannabis consumed in California is obtained from the licensed, regulated marketplace. The share of licensed consumption has increased from 25% in 2019 and in parallel with greater enforcement, public awareness campaigns and policy changes to create greater legal market access.

Continuing to move a greater share of consumers away from illicit sources and into the licensed market is critically important, because cannabis purchased from illicit sources poses serious public health and safety risks.

Unlicensed cannabis market

The size of the illicit market in California does not appear to be increasing, and the amount of cannabis illicitly grown and produced in California is estimated to be relatively stable today compared to production levels prior to adult-use legalization. However, a qualitative review of the data suggests that the size of the illicit market may be on the lower end of the estimated range. The State of California's multi-agency enforcement efforts, including those co-led by the Department as a part of California's Unified Cannabis Enforcement Task Force, appear to be restraining expansions of the illicit market.

As long as there is a patchwork of legalization across the country and high demand for California-grown cannabis, there will be an illicit cannabis market. The most effective ways to eliminate the illicit market include:

- Decreasing costs for licensed businesses
- Increasing costs for illicit cannabis
- Shifting more consumers from unregulated to licensed cannabis

Overall outlook

Despite the challenges the California cannabis market faces, 2024 saw the most licensed cannabis produced and a steady increase of the volume of licensed cannabis sold since the introduction of the cannabis regulatory framework in January 2018. The share of total cannabis consumption supplied by the licensed market remains stable at around 40 percent.

Cost reductions or avoided cost increases for licensed businesses, a strong regulatory system, targeted policy reforms, and continued enforcement and consumer education can support further shifts in consumer demand and promote market stability.

About This Report

This report is submitted in accordance with California Revenue and Taxation Code Division 2 Part 14.5 Chapter 3 §34020.1. It provides an overview of the condition and health of California’s cannabis industry. This reporting requirement was established by Assembly Bill 195 (Committee on Budget), a trailer bill implementing the Budget Act of 2022.

The report includes the following information:

- (1) How many local jurisdictions have permitted commercial cannabis activity
- (2) How many local jurisdictions have not permitted commercial cannabis activity
- (3) Information or analysis concerning the potential expansion or contraction of the cannabis market in the state, which may include information concerning any increase in retail cannabis sales and activity in the illicit market
- (4) How many equity licensees have been approved by the Department of Cannabis Control
- (5) In what counties the state equity licensees are located
- (6) The health of the Cannabis Tax Fund, and any future projections of Cannabis Tax Fund revenues
- (7) Information on the viability of cannabis businesses in the state, and the ability to continue to operate cannabis businesses in the state, from a general and equity licensee standpoint
- (8) The impacts of the suspension of the cultivation tax, including whether that suspension resulted in a decrease in retail cannabis prices or increased participation in the legal cannabis market

The Department of Cannabis Control recently commissioned a cannabis market report (California Cannabis Market Outlook Executive Summary and California Cannabis Market Outlook Full Report), which is submitted in fulfillment of the requirements for items 3, 7, and 8. This report includes additional information and recommendations to strengthen the state’s legal cannabis market.

This supplement contains additional data and insights addressing the remaining reporting requirements (items 1, 2, 4, 5, and 6).

Supplemental Report on the Health of the Cannabis Industry in California

Local Regulation of Cannabis Businesses

Cannabis businesses in California are regulated at the state and local level. State law designates local jurisdictions as either the city or county in which the business is physically located:

- Businesses located in an incorporated city are regulated by the city.
- Businesses located in an unincorporated portion of a county are regulated by the county.

The city or county can decide whether to license all cannabis business types, license some types but prohibit others, or prohibit all cannabis businesses.

The Department has an online data tool which shows where cannabis business are allowed within the state. Overall:

- 46% of cities and counties allow at least one type of cannabis business
- 54% of cities and counties do not allow any type of cannabis business
- 57% of cities and counties do not allow any retail cannabis businesses

(1) How many local jurisdictions have permitted commercial cannabis activity

As of July 2024:

Jurisdiction Type	Number that allow at least one type of commercial cannabis activity	Percent
Cities	220 out of 481	46%
Counties	30 out of 58	52%
Total	250 out of 539	46%

San Francisco, which is both a city and county, is included in this data as a county.*

See Exhibit 1 for a detailed listing.

(2) How many local jurisdictions have not permitted commercial cannabis activity

As of July 2024:

Jurisdiction Type	Number that prohibit all commercial cannabis activity	Percent
Cities	261 out of 481	54%
Counties	28 out of 58	48%
Total	289 out of 539	54%

San Francisco, which is both a city and county, is included in this data as a county.*

See Exhibit 1 for a detailed listing.

Equity Cannabis Business Licensing

The criminalization of cannabis has had a profound and lasting impact on Californians and communities across the country. The long-term consequences of cannabis prohibition continue to affect individuals with past cannabis convictions, their families, and the communities in which they live.

Starting a cannabis business presents challenges for all entrepreneurs, but it can be particularly difficult for those who have been harmed by cannabis criminalization. To address these disparities, California’s cannabis equity initiatives are designed to reduce barriers to enter the cannabis industry for those most impacted by the War on Drugs.

An equity business can be recognized by the Department if 50% of their ownership:

- Meet state equity criteria, which includes cannabis-related arrests or convictions, household income, or residency in areas disproportionately impacted by the War on Drugs
- Attest to their participation in a local jurisdiction’s cannabis equity program

Statewide counts of cannabis equity businesses can be challenging because businesses may qualify under one or both of the criteria above, and not all participants in local equity programs seek recognition as an equity business at the state level.

The Department provides financial assistance to cannabis equity businesses through state license fee waivers and deferrals. Waivers became available starting January 1, 2022, but funding was exhausted in February 2024. Deferrals, which began on January 1, 2023, continue to remain available.

Although license fee waiver funding is depleted, the Department of Cannabis Control continues to review waiver requests to determine eligibility for two state programs that provide financial assistance for cannabis equity businesses:

- The Vendor Compensation Program, administered by the California Department of Tax and Fee Administration, allows cannabis equity retailers to retain 20% of the cannabis excise tax they have collected on retail sales. This program ends on December 31, 2025.
- The Cannabis Equity Tax Credit, administered by the Franchise Tax Board, allows cannabis equity businesses to receive a $10,000 tax credit. This tax credit is available through the 2027 calendar year.

(4) How many equity licensees have been approved by the Department of Cannabis Control.

As of February 3, 2025, there are 2,103 active equity licenses across 42 counties. This total includes 8 cannabis event organizer licenses, which are not associated with a specific local jurisdiction.

(5) In what counties the state equity licensees are located.

Cannabis Taxes

(6) The health of the Cannabis Tax Fund, and any future projections of Cannabis Tax Fund revenues.

The Department of Cannabis Control does not manage California’s cannabis taxes, however, the information provided here is the result of consultation with the Department of Finance and California Department of Tax and Fee Administration (CDTFA).

Cannabis Tax Fund

The Governor’s proposed budget, published in January 2025, describes estimated revenues and expenditure allocations for the California Cannabis Tax Fund (3314). Exhibit 2 includes a detailed accounting for fiscal years 2023-24, 2024-25, and 2025-26, and below is a summary:

	2023-24	2024-25	2025-26
Beginning Balance	$469,563	$538,434	$468,205
Annual Cannabis Tax Revenue	$629,373	$603,741	$761,903
Total Revenues	$1,098,936	$1,142,175	$1,230,108
Total Expenditures	$560,502	$673,970	$468,205
Balance of Tax Receipts	$538,434	$468,205	$619,947

All figures are in millions*

 These figures include costs associated with the Vendor Compensation Program for cannabis equity retailers.*

Cannabis Tax Revenues

CDTFA publishes data related to cannabis tax revenues through an open data portal. This data is available on a quarterly basis and is displayed below:

Summary of trends:

- Cannabis tax revenue began to rise as businesses became licensed under the state’s regulatory framework in 2018 and continued throughout 2019.
- During the pandemic, cannabis tax revenues saw a temporary surge, peaking at over $800 million in fiscal year 2021-22. This increase aligned with nationwide trends for cannabis and other discretionary adult-use products and was further fueled by Americans receiving multiple stimulus checks.
- This tax revenue surge has since subsided. Tax revenues have decreased closer to pre-pandemic levels due to a variety of factors, including lower retail sales prices.
- The Governor’s Budget projects that cannabis tax revenues will be $762 million in fiscal year 2025-26, approximately 6 percent lower than the peak revenues seen in fiscal year 2021-22. This figure includes the Vendor Compensation Program for equity retailers and reflects the assumption that the cannabis excise tax rate will increase to 19 percent as of July 1, 2025.

Cannabis Tax Policy

California’s cannabis tax policy has evolved over time to simplify administration and enhance industry compliance. Key changes include:

- Effective July 1, 2022, the cultivation tax, which taxed cannabis flowers, leaves, and fresh cannabis plants at various rates per ounce, was eliminated.
- As of January 1, 2023, the point of taxation for cannabis products was permanently moved from wholesale to retail, meaning the 15% cannabis excise tax is now collected directly by retailers.

- The cannabis excise tax was established at rate of 15% for three fiscal years, beginning in 2023. Starting July 1, 2025, CDTFA must adjust the excise tax rate every two years, but the new rate may not exceed 19%.
